Parody on "Sing Me To Sleep"

(Written by a Canadian in the Trenches.)

Sing me to sleep where bullets fall,
Let me forget the war and all,
Damp is my dug-out, cold my feet
Nothing but bully and biscuits to eat.
Sing me to sleep where bullets explode
And shrapnel shells are a la mode,
Over the mudbags helmets you creep,
Corpses in front of you, friends behind.

REPEAT

War, far from Ypres I long to be
Where German snipers can't get at me.

Think of me crouching where the worms creep
Waiting for some one to sing me to sleep.
Sing me to sleep in some old shed,
The rats are running around my head.
Stretched out upon my waterproof,
Dodging the raindrops through the roof,
Sing me to sleep where camp fires glow,
Full of French bread and safe from view.
Dreaming of home, and nights in the West,
Somebody's overcoats on my chest.
Far from the starlight I'd love to be,
Lights of old London I'd rather see,
Think of me crouching where the worms creep,
Waiting for someone to sing me to sleep.

One On Us

Little Bobby Sparks was busy manipulating the keys of a Remington typewriter. Curious to know what the boy was doing, we asked: "What are you trying to do?" Bobby was not the least disturbed, but replied "Making a Blairmore Enterprise."

The department of agriculture is displaying commendable interest in the threshing operations of Southern Alberta. Realizing the urgent need of threshing outfits the department has sent five machines into the south country, and a hundred men, with positions already secured, were dispatched to the south to engage in threshing operations. A hundred men are to be sent to Medicine Hat district for the same purpose, positions having already been secured for that number. The department is wide awake in its efforts to assist the southern farmer and that its arrangements for threshing outfits and thrashing help is appreciated is needless to say.—Ex.

The Canadian casualty list now totals over 15,000. Of this total 1,724 officers and men were killed in action, 679 died of wounds, 178 died of illness, 40 were accidentally killed, 1,142 are missing, 1,307 are prisoners of war, and 10,117 were wounded.

December 9th—MARRIED—At the Methodist Parsonage on Thursday, Dec. 7th, by the Rev. J. B. Frañela, C. F. Selwick to Miss Lillian Woolnough, both of Blairmore. The bride was supported by her friend Mrs. L. Fortier and Mr. M. P. Devine acted as groomsmen. The happy couple left for the east, and on their return will be at home to their friends on the ranch on the South Fork. Contractor Disney has secured the contract for the erection of the Union hospital at Coleman.

On Monday, December 11th, an election will take place in the school house for an overseer for our village for the ensuing year. It is largely due to our present overseer, W. A. Beebe, that our town is in such good shape, both financially and in appearance, and it would be a great misfortune to our town if he should not again be elected.

There is a beautiful little poem of fine sentiment just out, entitled, "Don't take your troubles to bed." How about the poor ones who are married?—Lethbridge Herald.

As another evidence of the prosperity of our country, note the careless extravagance of the populace of Quebec bombarding Sarah Bernhardt with eggs retailing at 90 cents a dozen.

December 16—A hockey club, known as the "Tartars," was formed. The officers elected were, O. E. S. Whiteside, president; W. A. Beebe, vice-president; James Duggall, second vice-president; Rev. J. B. Francis, secretary-treasurer. Committee: Messrs. Drain, Duggall and Sparks.

On Monday evening W. A. Beebe was elected to succeed himself as overseer for the ensuing year.

J. H. Farmer has been elected overseer for Frank.

W. A. Beebe visited Frank and was granted the Freedom of that City.

DOHN—At Pincher Creek on Saturday, December 9th, to the wife of Henry Gibeau, of Frank, a son.

A very pleasant dance was given at the Blairmore hotel on Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Selwick, who have just returned from their wedding trip.

Sidney A. Lang is teacher in charge of the Blairmore school.

December 30—A. McLeod made a business trip to Cowley on Tuesday and returned with over $1000 worth of pianos on his trip.

MARRIED—At Blairmore, on Tuesday, T. Burnett to Fanny Fritts.

Scale of Prices

A western editor years ago came to the conclusion that those desiring "puffs" in his paper should pay for them. He established the following scale of prices:

For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he is as lazy as a government mule, $2.70;

Referring to a deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when we know he will only be missed by a poker circle, $10.13.

Referring to some galavauiting female as an estimable lady when it is a pleasure to meet, when every business man in town would rather see the devil coming, $8.10;

Calling an ordinary pulpit powder an eminent divine, sixty cents;

Scolding a doughty sinner to heaven, $5.00.

George E. Buck, president and managing director of the Black Diamond Oil Co., for whom warrants were issued some time ago at the instance of the crown prosecutor, on Monday morning walked into the office of the chief of police at Calgary and gave himself up. Buck came up for preliminary hearing on Tuesday on the charge of fraud, and was admitted to bail of $10,000.

ISTORY OF THE MOST CRUCIAL ENGAGEMENT OF THE GREAT WAR

WORDS WILL RING DOWN THROUGH THE AGES

French was present at Hogebe between 3 and 3 o'clock on this day." These thirteen words will ring down through the centuries. They were written by Sir John French, an official report of the battle of the Marston Road, the very heart and core of the battle.

To see General French come into the battle, the British had to be shells, to know that he had not given up hope, was an inspiration to the others. General French was spending that famous little hour "at Hogebe between 3 and 3 o'clock on this day."

General French and Sir Douglas Haig and their officers hustled from the front line to the rear. At their coming, the British were in a state of major, could not be more. They were fired with the greatest of the officers. They became private; they were not. They were not. They were not. There was no longer need for officers, the battle had become a fight to the death.

It was shortly before 2.30 that Gennators will say that no general in the history of great battles ever had greater cause of giving his troops than General Cheluev at such a time was fraught, with momentum, consequences.

Catastrophe in German Ships

Vladimir Ramsay, French Translator, French Chemist's Warning
Sir William Ramsay, writes to the London Times, occasion, a translation of the Russian report of the capture of the current number of the "Comptes Rendus" of the French Academy of Sciences, which says that M. Victor Hantzsch, French chemist at the highest reputation, M. Ureahin is one of the most distinguished organic chemists. His translation is as follows:
"M. Ureahin, who had an opportunity of examining a large quantity of German munitions, which have failed to explode, informs me that explosive materials of 77 calibre and grenade shells of 82 mm. diameter are composed of brown powder, smelted through white powder, 91 per cent."

Cost of Inside Information

Vast Sumas Expended in Secret Service Work of the Nations
A country's secret service costs quite a big sum.
It is said, however, actually, it is said, Germany $400,000, France $200,000, Russia nearly $500,000, England £100,000.
In Britain, the public know nothing of how secret affairs money is spent. It is felt at the disposal of ministers to be expended at their discretion in promoting or protecting the loyalty of the country.
Among the European powers, the Russian secret service is probably the finest, but it embraces many thousands of people, from the lowest to the highest ranks of society.

Abstinence Doomed
The French government, by a vote 463 to 59, has decided to prohibit

At the time, the sale of absinthe, this popular French wine, which contained up to 30 per cent. to alcohol, owed its peculiar popularity to the fact that it was brewed in the debate which surrounded its banishment from France in 1905. The banishment was the result of a very injurious effect upon the French.

It is admitted that it inspired some writers and poets to high flights of genius, but sent a far larger number to the hospital. The banishment prohibition which was its first establishment has now become a permanent banishment after the Frenchman has not done without their national beverage.

Survival of the Unfit

In 1807, a British sea captain under Admiral Duckworth, forced its way

The Haackel doctrine, in fact, is the survival of the fittest. Like most great religions in the past forty years, it was a laborious initiator, carrying out its discoveries and theories through the discoveries and theories of others. The people he would postulate as survivors would not, in point of fact, be the fittest. The fittest would be those who might be the strongest or the most practical or the most successful, in the most practical sense of the word, and that makes man nearer to the brute and fitter him nearer to his god. The fittest, in the sense of the fittest, that, thus stated, represents the survival of the human race through a series of wars, into barbarism—Wall Street, London, into barbarism—Wall Street, London.

To Encourage Canadian Shipbuilding

Mr. Alex. G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, C.B., is making a very active and powerful campaign for the due protection of the coastwise shipping of Canada. He directs special attention to the fact that Norwegian shipping is very greatly in evidence in this trade, and he advocates government aid towards the construction of a Canadian mercantile marine. While he deals wholly with the coastwise business, his observations have a general bearing. He has lately drawn attention to some very remarkable facts. No very long ago Canada stood fourth among the shipowning countries in the world; now she stands eleventh. A few years ago Nova Scotia, with a population of 400,000, owned 558,000 tons of shipping; now Canada, with 8,000,000 people, only owns 806,000 tons. Once the Union Jack flying over Canadian-owned ships was to be seen in all parts of the "Seven Seas," now a Canadian-owned ship is a rarity. Mr. Baillie calls for a bonus of $20.00 a ton on steel ship built in Canada and $8.00 on wooden ships. He cites the following resolution passed in May, 1914, by the Shipmasters' Association, No. 1, of Halifax:

"Believing that the time has come when Canadians should take stand as a maritime nation to be restored to their once former proud position of fourth in shipping among the nations of the world, that this can best be established by the government of Canada granting a bonus or subsidy to steel shipbuilding of at least ten dollars per ton, so that on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard of Canada she can rebuild a new Canadian mercantile marine, the natural place for steel shipbuilding, with open ice free port-waiting in year round, but the same bonus or subsidy should apply to places where there are no open ports part of the year."

We suppose it will be difficult to secure action by parliament in this very important matter until the end of the war is in sight, but the question is one that calls loudly for consideration. A suggestion made in one of the papers sent us by Mr. Baillie that a Royal Commission should be appointed to investigate the matter in all bearings, and this would perhaps be as wise a plan as could be adopted at the present time. The establishment of a Canadian mercantile marine that will be proportionate to the foreign trade of the country would be an achievement of the greatest value.

The first services of the united Presbyterian and Baptist congregations were held at the Baptist church in Sunday morning and evening last, addressed by Rev. A. D. Pringle, of Cook Creek Presbyterian mission. Both services on Sunday were well attended, and there is every evidence that the union of the two bodies will prove satisfactory to the people of both denominations. It is the intention of the united congregation to secure an ordained preacher, and one who will be best suited to a field of this sort. For the present the Baptists have offered the free use of the church for two years on conditions that the Presbyterians will provide a clergyman. While the Presbyterians would be held responsible for the support of the pastor, yet as this field is a small one and the burden of maintaining a fully qualified minister would be too heavy on a few people, it is hoped and expected that all will do their part towards the upkeep of the work. The Baptists maintain the use of the church for special Baptist activities, exercises for three Sundays in each year. At this connection the services at Sunday will be held by them, Rev. C. C. MacLaughlin, superintendent of Baptist missions, officiating.

There is a woman prisoner in goal at Macleod awaiting sentence of death for murder. She shot and killed a woman who had invaded and pushed her from her home and lived in an attitude of boastful shame with the husband of the prisoner, the pair being the subject of scandal in the community. If there be justification under the unwritten law, every evidence produced favor this woman. The clergyman of Macleod have joined efforts to stay the execution in this case, and by petition the men and women of the province will have opportunity to present judgment in the matter and make demand for at least the commutation of sentence.
